About Suitcase

Suitcase booking application Users can book holidays, flights and hotels on this application. I landed on this project from an online travel agency in September 2018 who were looking to digitize their brand. I worked on this project for 2 months.

Despite of having so many travel booking apps out there, I wanted something that looked different than all those apps out there. A very clean and elegant finish without much clutter. Bold color and beautiful transitions are part of this UI. The agency I was working this project for suddenly stopped contacting one day, so I converted the app into a concept app for my portfolio and made several changes to it. I named the app and created the logo and tagline for it.

Future Vision

Creating a travel app was a bit of a challenge. I have used so many travel applications and to do something different and better was exciting. So considering myself and people like me who use a lot of apps, I designed in a way I saw fit. There's much more I wish to add in the application like booking cars, cruises and travel news. In the future I'd like to make this app into an all-in-one travel application where not just can the user book transport and accommodation, but can find guides to travel to places, read travel news, find facts about places, book a cab, ask for directions, etc.

Wireframes & Sketches

At the beginning of my design process I created wireframes for testing purposes.

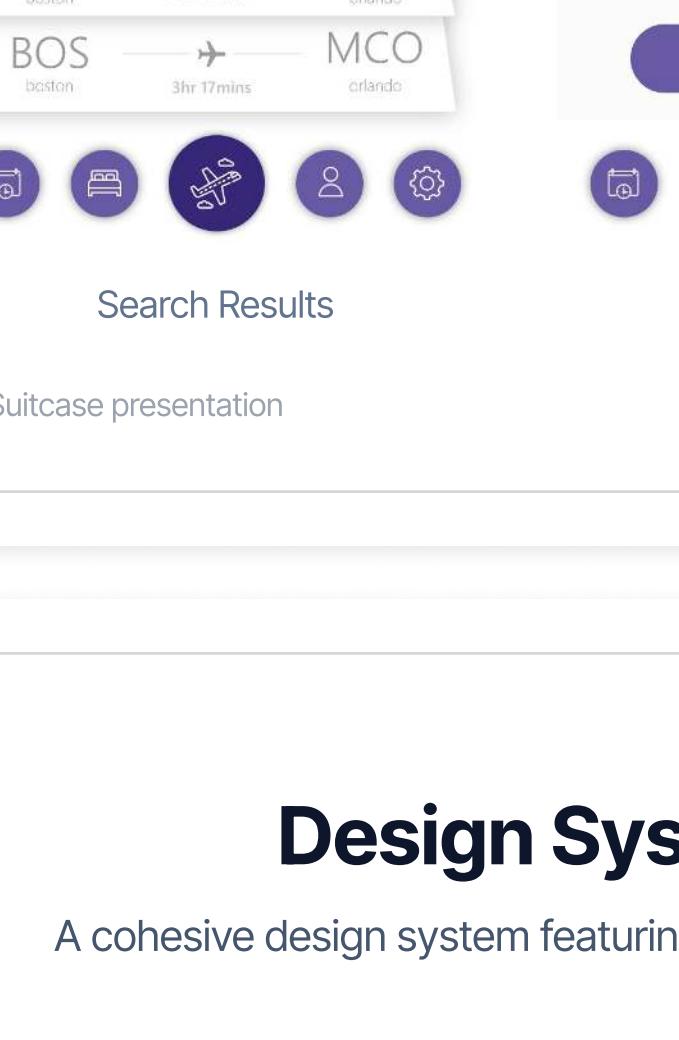

Guiding Questions:

- Why was it useful to do this?
- What kind of wireframes did you make?
- Low fidelity or high fidelity?
- What did you learn from it?
- Did you use them for testing?
- How many iterations did you have?

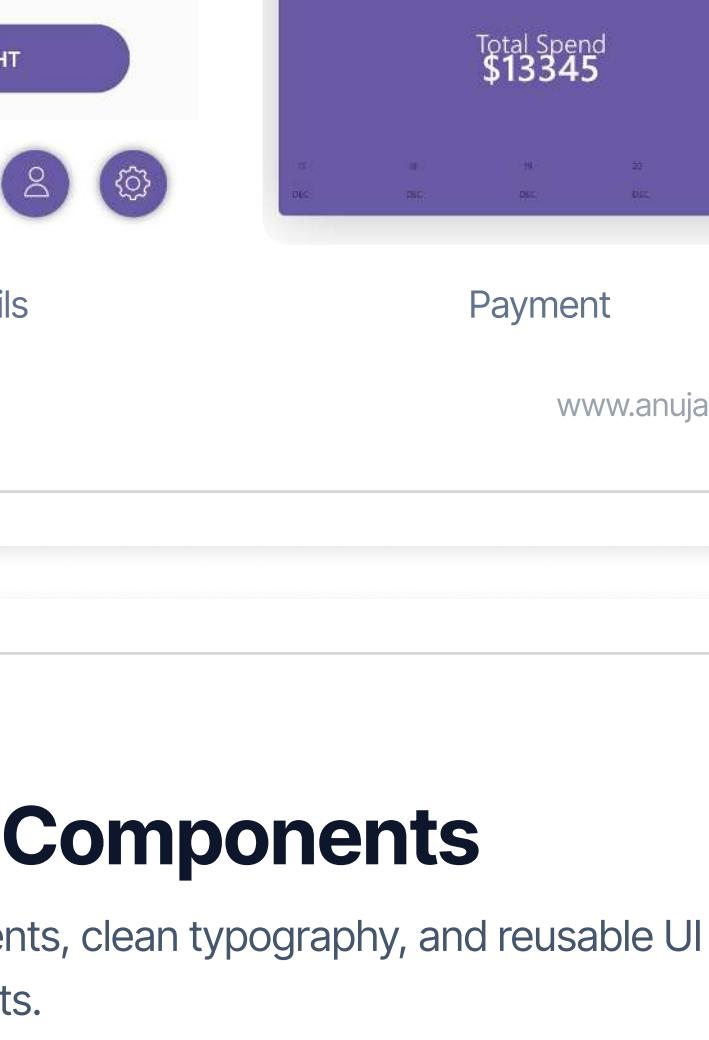

User Flows — Onboarding & Authentication

Low-fidelity wireframes mapping out the onboarding experience and login/signup flows.

UI Design Approach

Once I tested out all usability mistakes, I started designing the final screens in Sketch.

Guiding Questions:

- What kind of visual style did you follow? (Fresh, corporate, dark, light?)
- What inspired you to use this style?
- Did you follow any guidelines? (Material Design, iOS Styleguide, etc?)
- What platforms did you design for?
- Which details really fill you with pride?
- How does your final design reflect your learnings about your users?
- How does this design help achieve business or user goals?

Clean. Elegant. Bold.

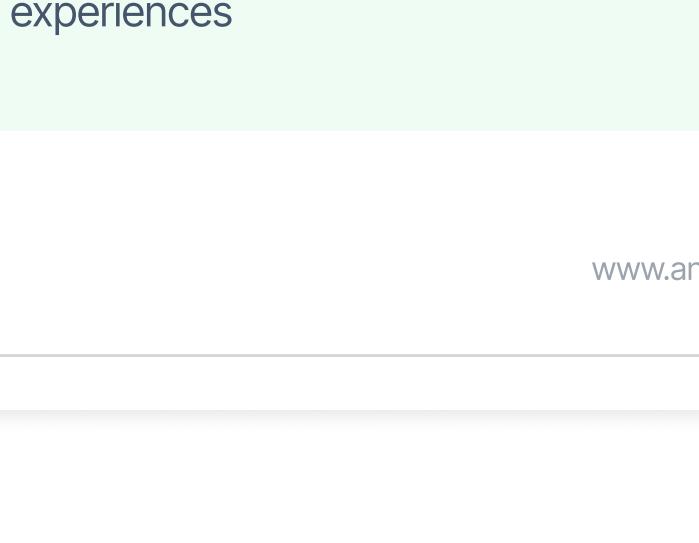

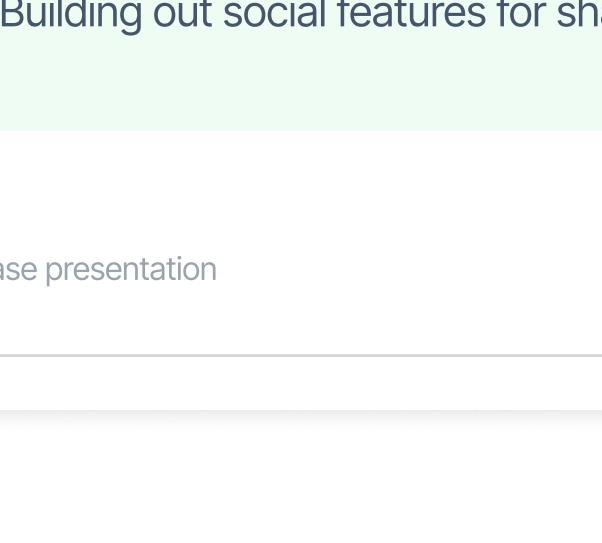

A fresh visual style combining vibrant purple gradients, clean white spaces, and beautiful transitions to create a travel experience that feels both modern and trustworthy.
